ROBBER BALKE BY RUSE DURING STATION HOLDUP

Thomas Brannon Cries "I Know You"; Young Bandit Flees

MONEY LEFT BEHIND
Theft Attempt Made At 5 A. M. Monday

Believing his disguise had failed its purpose, a lone bandit fled without taking $50 in cash from the Critts southend filling station at 5 a. m. Monday.

The robber, wearing sun goggles and a handkerchief, forced Thomas Brannon, S. Washington street, attendant at the station, to open the cash register. After taking some bills from the register, estimated to include about $50, the bandit dropped the cash and ran when Brannon said "I know who you are."

Police were told that Brannon was sitting in the station with the door locked when the man appeared. Brannon unlocked the door to permit the man to enter, not knowing he was a robber. The bandit carried a nickel-plated gun. After backing out of the station the bandit fled behind the station.

Police were told the man, believed to be young, was about five feet, six inches tall and weighed about 130 pounds.

Brannon did not know the identity of the robber, officers were told, but made his statement in an effort to baffle the would-be robber.

NEW DEAL FACES TEST AS FLORIDA NAMES SENATOR

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., May 2.—(UP)—Florida Democrats will vote tomorrow on five U. S. senate candidates, among them Sen. Claude Pepper, running for re-election with President Roosevelt's approval.

James Roosevelt, the President's son, said last winter that the administration hoped Pepper would be re-elected and the President has indicated his approval of Pepper. His chief opponents, Dave Shultz, former governor, and Rep. Mark Wilcox, are but erratic supporters of the New Deal.

The primary was therefore regarded as the first direct test of the administration's prestige since it suffered reverses in the current congress.

Pepper campaigned as a "100 percent" New Dealer. Shultz and Wilcox called him a "rubber stamp" senator. Both said that if they were elected, they would vote their own convictions, not the administration's.

Several Opponents Speak Concerning Bill

WASHINGTON, May 2—(UP)—President Roosevelt intervened and lent his personal support today to an attempt to revive the new wage hour bill but he encountered an immediate counter-attack from a house bloc determined to kill the measure for this session.

Mr. Roosevelt wrote Chairman Mary Norton of the labor committee which drafted the new bill, urging that it be sent to the house floor for consideration by the full membership.

He suggested that the house rules committee reconsider its refusal to grant the measure a rule and, failing that, said he would favor a petition to discharge the rules committee and force the bill to the floor. Mrs. Norton expected to file a discharge petition in the house this week.

Councilman Gordon Says Uptown Improvement To Be Discussed

EARLY ACTION HINTED

No Legislation Requested, Solicitor Avers

Boulevard light system for Circleville's downtown district will be discussed at the regular meeting of council Wednesday evening. Councilman Ben Gordon said Monday.

A representative of the Westinghouse Co. may be asked to attend the meeting.

The boulevard light question is back in council's hands as a result of the special election last week when voters turned down the street lighting contract of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., including installation of a wooden pole system in the downtown district.

Gordon hinted early action by the council.

Carl C. Leist, solicitor, said no legislator has been asked to date for the Wednesday night meeting.

DEATH VALLEY YIELDS FOSSILS OF ODD BEASTS

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Fossil footprints of prehistoric animals found in Death Valley would indicate that it was once one of their favorite haunts before man came along, according to scientists of the U. S. Geological Survey.

Prints have been found of the feet of the American camel, stubby-legged pigs, one-toed horses the size of burros, ancestors of the modern wolf and cat, and large and small wading birds.

The prints were found in two different formations, one distinctly older than the other, although both have been established as dating from the Miocene age.

Geologists declare the prints were formed in beds of soft mud, apparently around water holes to which the animals went to drink.

They later were covered by additional deposits of mud, hardened into clay, and during geological disturbances were tilted to give the impression that the animals walked on slopes steeper than the roof of a house.

Club Meets Wednesday To Plan May 9 Event

By S. D. FRIDLEY

Ashville, Phone 79

There will be a meeting of the Community Club Wednesday evening, May 4, at the creamery dining room. Next Monday is Caravan Day at Circleville and if Ashville is to be represented there by other than the band, a move should be made and that now.

Taylor Brinklinger has the largest and best collection of relics we know of in the community.

The great-granddad rifle of them all, of Revolutionary War days, is up in Madison township and we hope some way to have it on exhibition among the other "old time" articles in the many collections which will be on exhibition there.

Have not found any ox team yet, but ran across an "old timer" a few days ago who said he used to drive oxen and recalled that they once ran away with him and smashed things up a bit.

If we could have now the old spinning wheels, the big dutch oven and the great pewter pans we knocked about and broke up, we'd sure have something worth while.

Ashville—Arnold Property Sold

The personal property and real estate of the late Peter Arnold located at Marcy along the Fairfield-Pickaway line, was sold at public auction Saturday afternoon by the administrator, W. E. Arnold.

The personal property, blacksmith tools and household goods, brought in cash something near $250. The real estate, consisting of one acre of land with dwelling, shop and other buildings, shop and other buildings, was purchased by Kirby Williamson and Don Swoyer for $1800.

As we recall it, Mr. Arnold operated his blacksmith shop at Marcy for near fifty years. Before establishing his shop at Marcy, he operated one here at Ashville, making his home with the late Doctor Steward and his family.

Ashville—School Class Recalled

Met Saturday one of the class of some 60 students who attended school at Lithopolis in 1882, and that is now some 56 years ago.

She was then Miss Mary Pfleuger and is now the mother of Mrs. Adolph Stellhorn Madison township, with whom she makes her home. In so far as we could, we named the members of that class, finding that quite a few of them have passed on. Prof. W. Henry Hartough, our teacher, is yet living in Columbus and instructs a class of several pupils in shorthand.

Ashville—Addition Completed

The addition to the Dr. R. S. Hosler office building is enclosed and in the near future will be ready for occupancy.

Ashville—Council in Session

The Village Council will be in session tonight, paying current bills and possibly sidewalk repair will again be up for discussion.

"CAMELS AGREE WITH ME!"

Leading growers tell their preference in cigarettes — it's Camel!

"We smoke Camels because we know tobacco," tobacco planters say

"I've been planting tobacco for twenty years," says Harry C. King. "Camel bought the choice lots of my last crop—paid more for my best tobacco. So I know they use finer, more expensive tobaccos in Camels—a mighty good reason why my cigarette is Camel."

"I'm a tobacco planter," says Vernter Hatton, who has grown tobacco from the ground up. "Last year I grew a handsome crop. Camel bought up my best leaf tobacco. I smoke Camels—I know no substitute for expensive tobaccos. Most planters favor Camels."

Councilman Gordon Says Uptown Improvement To Be Discussed

EARLY ACTION HINTED

No Legislation Requested, Solicitor Avers

Boulevard light system for Circleville's downtown district will be discussed at the regular meeting of council Wednesday evening, Councilman Ben Gordon said Monday.

A representative of the Westinghouse Co. may be asked to attend the meeting.

The boulevard light question is back in council's hands as a result of the special election last week when voters turned down the street lighting contract of the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co., including installation of a wooden pole system in the downtown district.

Gordon hinted early action by the council.

Carl C. Leist, solicitor, said no legislation has been asked to date for the Wednesday night meeting.

FARM NEWS

Brief Items of Interest to Pickaway Farmers

Ohio sugar bushes produced only about half the normal amount of maple syrup in 1938. Early high temperatures shortened the flow of sap.

Good Ohio pasture is one of the most efficient and economical means of producing meat and milk but livestock should not be expected to pay for the privilege of searching for grass in worn out fields.

The national secretary of the states committee council for the World's Poultry Congress is urging poultrymen in every state to arrange mass meeting to hear the program to be broadcast from the Ohio Poultry Field Day at Wooster, Thursday, July 2.

The AAA announced April 23 that the Surplus Commodities Corporation would purchase 91 carloads of roller process dry skim-milk. This 3,642,000 pounds of dry skim-milk will be distributed through relief agencies. Four of the cars were bought from a Toledo plant.

Cows and hens in the United States celebrated the early Spring by sharp increases in production during March, and it is probable the accelerated pace continued through April. The number of cows in the country is about the same as in 1937, but farmers are buying and hatching more baby chicks than a year ago.

Fruit in many European countries was severely damaged by late frosts. In England, plums were wiped out, 75 percent of the cherries were killed, and at least 50 percent of the apples and pears were destroyed. Bush fruits and strawberries also were killed. Switzerland had the worst frost in 80 years and fruit crops were damaged over continental Europe from the Scandinavian Peninsula to the Italian Tyrol.

DEATH VALLEY YIELDS FOSSILS OF ODD BEASTS

LOS ANGELES (UP)—Fossil footprints of prehistoric animals found in Death Valley would indicate that it was once one of their favorite haunts before man came along, according to scientists of the U. S. Geological Survey.

Prints have been found of the feet of the American camel, stubby-legged pigs, one-toed horses the size of burros, ancestors of the modern wolf and cat, and large and small wading birds.

The prints were found in two different formations, one distinctly older than the other, although both have been established as dating from the Miocene age.

Geologists declare the prints were formed in beds of soft mud, apparently around water holes to which the animals went to drink.

Cylinders of helium cost less than $15 at the U. S. helium plant near Amarillo, Tex. At 1917 prices such cylinders would cost $400,000.

Cleverly adapted for the stage, and losing little of the original story in the dramatization, Wall Spence has made a stirring play of "Jane Eyre," one of the best loved books of the last century. Ten million copies have been sold to three generations.

There are few literary figures that command more universal interest than the three Bronte sisters—Anne, Emily, and Charlotte, who were reared in the lovely moorland region of Yorkshire, England. Though for the most part isolated, these sisters by virtue of their literary genius, were able to people their lovely lives with fascinating characters of their own creative imagination.

In one of her letters that has been preserved, Charlotte tells of their early struggles and how, to counteract the prevailing prejudice against women writers, they adopted the pen names by Charlotte, is conceded by many to be one of the most stirring romances ever written.

Under direction of Samuel Johnson, dramatic coach, the expertly dramatized story will be presented in the high school auditorium, May 12 and 13. The presentation is the annual play staged by the senior class.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

The players in "College Swing" were so funny that they scared their own director!

Raoul Walsh, the chief of the new Paramount comedy of high jinx on a great university campus, which is now showing on the screen of the Clifton Theatre, admits that his knees shook when Producer Lewis Gensler, after assigning him the picture, showed him the cast sheet.

"Imagine what I felt when I first looked at the list," says Walsh. "Could you find a madder crew in all of Hollywood, even if you deliberately searched for it? In the first place, there's Gracie Allen. I've been seeing her pictures for years, wondering how the directors ever managed to put her through her paces without ending up in a strait-jacket. With her, of course, is George Burns, who is a clown of the first rank in spite of his 'straight' roles. Add to this Martha Raye, whose energy makes most screen comedians look as if they belonged to a ladies' sewing circle, and Bob Hope, wise-cracker par excellence, and you have something to cope with. And, with Ben Blue and Edward Everett Horton thrown in for good measure, you have a cast which should raise the roof of any studio."

AT THE GRAND

A Scotland Yard sleuth taking a busman's holiday in strife-worn Spain, Don Amache finds the former land of bullfights and manillas is still a setting for tempestuous romance when he meets Loretta Young in "Love Under Fire," Twentieth Century-Fox picture at the Grand Theatre. Borrah Minevitch and his harmonica rascals present their version of traditional Spanish serenading, and the cast also features Frances Drake, Walter Catlett, John Carradine, Sig Rumann and Harold Huber.

Darryl F. Zanuck, Twentieth Century-Fox production chief, selected George Marshall to direct, with Nunnally Johnson associate producer.

Imported tie silk is being sold for blouses. It is featured in 24 to 36-inch widths.

Federal Farm Program
Aid In Erosion Fight

Eastern Ohio farms, where erosion is a serious problem, can be kept inside the line fences and in a productive condition more easily if the owner participates in the A.A.A. farm program, according to S. V. Wallace, Bloomingdale, who has been farming in Ohio 35 years and who now has his son as partner on a 153-acre place in Jefferson county.

Mr. Wallace explains that payments made under the federal farm plans help farmers buy grass seed, fertilizers, and lime which are needed to get good stands of legumes and grass. Grass lands resist erosion much more successfully than land planted to cultivated crops.

Mr. Wallace and his son depend on dairy cows and poultry for most of the cash income on the farm and their system of farming maintains soil productivity. Since participating in A. A. A. programs, their crop rotation has been changed to corn, wheat, or oats, and two years of alfalfa, clover, and timothy mixture.

The increase in hay and the decrease in grains with this crop rotation does not create problems in feeding livestock on the Wallace farm. Mr. Wallace says he could feed more hay to good advantage. He believes this cropping system will permit making a living from the farm and still keep it in a productive condition.

He says, "A. A. A. payments will help Ohio farmers to follow a better farming system if they cooperate in the programs and earn the payments. The farmers themselves could develop a better farming program without government help but I do not believe they will."

BRITISH TROOPS FORCE JAPS OUT OF SETTLEMENT

Search For Chinese Who Tossed Bomb Leads To Near-Crisis

SHANGHAI, May 2—(UP)—British troops forced Japanese to evacuate the British defense zone of the international settlement today. The Japanese had been looking for a Chinese who threw a grenade at a Japanese truck.

Fifty British soldiers, in full war equipment, took up sentry duty along Nanking road and set up two machine guns. Britons were stationed man for man beside Japanese sentries who had been placed in the zone, bordering the American zone while their officers tried to establish their right to be there.

The Japanese retired after the British soldiers trailed along every time the Japanese attempted to establish independent sentry posts. The Japanese took control of the area after the grenade exploded at 3 p. m. Sunday and retained it until early today. Hundreds of Chinese were searched and many were arrested.

It was the second Japanese invasion of areas south of Soochow creek within 24 hours. British and American residents were resentful.

Meanwhile, heavy fighting in which regular troops of the Chinese central army were participating, broke out in the Peiping-Senchow sector. The Japanese admitted that the Chinese occupied Chochow and disrupted service on the Peiping-Hankow railroad.

The United Press Peiping bureau reported that bombing was heard in the Mentoukow sector, where there has been severe guerrilla fighting for a week.

Federal Farm Program
Aid In Erosion Fight

Eastern Ohio farms, where erosion is a serious problem, can be kept inside the line fences and in a productive condition more easily if the owner participates in the A.A.A. farm program, according to S. V. Wallace, Bloomingdale, who has been farming in Ohio 35 years and who now has his son as partner on a 153-acre place in Jefferson county.

Mr. Wallace explains that payments made under the federal farm plans help farmers buy grass seed, fertilizers, and lime which are needed to get good stands of legumes and grass. Grass lands resist erosion much more successfully than land planted to cultivated crops.

Mr. Wallace and his son depend on dairy cows and poultry for most of the cash income on the farm and their system of farming maintains soil productivity. Since participating in A. A. A. programs, their crop rotation has been changed to corn, wheat, or oats, and two years of alfalfa, clover, and timothy mixture.

The increase in hay and the decrease in grains with this crop rotation does not create problems in feeding livestock on the Wallace farm. Mr. Wallace says he could feed more hay to good advantage. He believes this cropping system will permit making a living from the farm and still keep it in a productive condition.

He says, "A. A. A. payments will help Ohio farmers to follow a better farming system if they cooperate in the programs and earn the payments. The farmers themselves could develop a better farming program without government help but I do not believe they will."

WOMEN'S WEALTH

WOMEN are the prospective owners of most of the nation's wealth, according to Dr. William E. Weld, president of Wells College. They are the beneficiaries of 80 percent of life insurance policies.

They pay 80 percent of the inheritance taxes. They are 50 percent of the stockholders in the United States and own 44 percent of the public utilities in the country.

No women ever set out on a crusade to win for their sex all the private wealth of the land. The trend in that direction has come as a byproduct of other events. And other byproducts, in the form of other social changes, will follow it.

For one thing, says Dr. Weld, it shifts "the burden of benevolence from the shoulders of the man to those of the woman." And since woman is less of an individualist and more socially minded than man, she is taking this burden seriously and preparing herself to carry it well. "She is entering into courses in sociology, politics, economics, international relations and psychology with fine interest which promises good things for the future."

This process will affect women themselves, the homes they create and consequently all of society. It should be a process of growth and improvement for all three.

COURTEOUS COPS

TRAFFIC police in one of the big cities, after getting drivers pretty well trained to observe the red lights, found that pedestrians were still snarling up the traffic and endangering their own lives. They not only kept on jay-walking between crossings, but at the regular crossings they persisted in crossing regardless of signals.

"Bawling out" a continuous throng of hurrying people is a big undertaking, and doesn't seem to do much good anyway. A clever official had a great quantity of cards printed and stationed policemen at the worst crossings to distribute them. They were not police court tickets, but courteous messages courteously presented.

"You have just crossed the street against the red light," they said. Then they explained the dangers of the practice, and its unfairness to motorists, and urged the offenders to be more careful and considerate.

People seemed to like the idea and appreciate the courtesy, and the situation is reported as much improved. The color of the tickets is changed occasionally, so they

GOVERNMENT TO REVIVE BILL

WAshington—The triumphant foes of the President's Government Reorganization Bill have a surprise in store for them.

Barring a last minute change in secret plans, Administration leaders will shortly revive the legislation in the House and launch a new offensive to write it into law. Two factors are behind this decision:

1. The belief in the inner circle that there has been a powerful popular reaction against the turn-down of the measure, and that a number of the Congressmen who voted with the opposition now regret they did so and are eager to climb back on the Roosevelt band-wagon.

2. That even if the bill is rejected a second time, it would be good political strategy for the Administration to make the issue clear-cut by forcing the boys to stand up and be counted again.

If the House stands pat and refuses to give ground on the legislation, the President has definitely determined to make government reorganization a battle-cry in this year's elections.

NOTE—Inside word among the six Wisconsin Progressives who bolted the leadership of Senator Bob LaFollette on the bill is that at least three of them, under the hammering they have received from constituents and the party press, have reversed themselves and will vote with the Administration if they get another chance.

MATRIarchs

Adolf Berle, Brain Trust Assistant Secretary of State, was declaiming to a group of friends on one of his favorite topics—the awe-inspiring superiority of Berle brain power.

"There are 26 traceable generations of Berles," he boasted, "and the last six have obtained their livelihood entirely by intellect."

"It must have been the women they married," observed Mrs. Randolph Paul, who had been listening patiently.

NEW YORK GOVERNOR

One man to keep an eye on, in placing any long-distance money on the next Governor of New York, is Democratic Congressman James M. Mead of Buffalo.

The President and Jim Farley have been giving him a careful once-over, with the idea that he may be the compromise candidate acceptable both to up-State Democrats and to Laborites in New York City, and finally not unacceptable to Tammany.

Jim Mead is an important figure in Congress, has been a staunch supporter of Roosevelt policies, but will require a considerable build-up before he can go over in the entire state.

This does not mean Solicitor General Bob Jackson is out of the running. It is still almost anybody's race.

will not look so familiar, and that helps. The police like it, too.

Some of the Daughters of the American Revolution say it wasn't in good taste for the President to remind them that their ancestors were immigrants and revolutionaries.

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Budd L. McKillips of the staff of the standard railroad labor organizations' news organ, Labor, undoubtedly knows at least as much as to America's transportation problem as any individual in the country. Maybe he knows more than any other single individual.

According to Budd, "while all of the railroads are now a little anemic from undernourishment due to the business decline, it is generally conceded that they would be able to pull through nicely if they were not carrying around such a load of bond interest obligations." He adds that some of them are suffering from watered stock also.

In other words, they are trying to make money (or, at worst, break even) on the basis of a supposed investment immensely larger than ever was put into them.

RAILROADS DENY
I made this statement myself (though without Budd's background or specialized information) some time ago.

It was promptly challenged by the Association of American Railroads' press bureau. If the roads ever were watered, the bureau's representative assured me, the juice was squeezed out of them in the far distant past. Well, in fairness, I put out their side of the story—endeavoring to make it clear that it was THEIR version.

For, candidly, I didn't believe it. Budd McKillips, however, speaks with plenty of authority.

He refers to the Association of American Railroads' "press releases" as "tripe, which is fooling no one who doesn't want to be kidded."

MILLIONS INVOLVED
Nevertheless, it is a Dickens (a stronger word SHOULD be used) of a situation.

The stock-watering and over-bonding dates back a generation or two.

Innocent, unsophisticated suckers loaded up on the transportation lines' securities at the time, their children inherited them and today the sack is held mainly by the original buyers' grandchildren.

And figures run into the billions.

RAILROAD PROPOSALS
Talk of putting intrinsically insolvent rails through the bankruptcy "wringer" is all very well.

It would make for better conditions 100 years hence—but at present?

Rail management want to increase passenger and freight rates to meet their overload of obligations. That would advance prices of everything. The Interstate Commerce Commission's view is that this would curtail buying, and consequently reduce shipments, reacting disadvantageously upon the railroads themselves.

Rail management also want to slash wages—which would reduce the workers' buying power, and harm business generally.

The issue is one of about 1838, tackled under circumstances of 1938.

And the railroad jam is a major factor in connection with the current recession.

FUNDAMENTALS NOT REACHED

We knew the railroads were going on the rocks away back in 1893, when the United States had a historic panic.

But nothing was done about it.

We did not know what to do about it, in fact. We do not know now, either.

The thing is too fundamental.

STOP-GAP LEGISLATION

There is due to be some stop-gap legislation at this session of congress.

It will be like attempting to stop-gap Noah's flood temporarily.

Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, who, as chairman of the senate's interstate commerce committee, has been bossing congress' railroad investigation, is chiefly charged with the task of solving the puzzle.

Well, he has a job on his hands. Do the railroads need more equipment to handle their traffic? President Daniel Willard of the Baltimore and Ohio says otherwise. His tale is that they need "more traffic to handle."

Rail management also want to keep the new house next door vacant till a friend of hers can get out to see it.

Effect of Tetra Ethyl Gas on the Hair

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WE HAVE HAD several communications asking whether there is any harm in tetra ethyl lead gasoline, especially as to whether it causes lead poisoning.

When it was first introduced into commercial use, there was a great deal of fear that it might cause some trouble, but this has been unfounded and careful investigations have revealed no cases of serious industrial poisoning from its use. However, it does appear that in some cases it may have an injurious influence on the skin, especially the hair.

A man aged 45, who had been an automobile mechanic for fifteen years, did a job which occupied him several days, in which he had to get under an automobile.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

using atomized gasoline through a spray gun for removing grease. He naturally got a good deal on his person. Three days after this, all the hair on the left eyebrow, and a good deal of the hair on the right eyebrow, and most of the hair of the scalp came out. Within two months he had lost all the hair on his body. No other evidence of intoxication or lead poisoning or disease of any kind was found.

Experiments on Animals
In making experiments on animals it was found that tetra ethyl lead will cause hair to disappear in areas where it is repeatedly applied. Chemistry will eventually cure the world's financial headaches. We don't know about that but chemistry certainly performs miracles with individual hangovers.

Leader of the newly-formed Little Women's League for Peace says she plans to place thousands of attractive blondes in front of the trenches in the next war. If they thought she meant it, the soldiers would start one tomorrow.

Who said the world wasn't becoming humane? In Europe they've developed a gas-proof baby buggy to protect infants so they can grow up and become soldiers.

And now surrealist wall paper is being manufactured. No doubt, for the benefit of teetotalers who now, on awakening, can experience all the joys of a hangover.

WOMEN'S WEALTH

WMEN are the prospective owners of most of the nation's wealth, according to Dr. William E. Weld, president of Wells College.

They are the beneficiaries of 80 percent of life insurance policies.

They pay 80 percent of the inheritance taxes.

They are 50 percent of the stockholders in the United States and own 44 percent of the public utilities in the country.

No women ever set out on a crusade to win for their sex all the private wealth of the land. The trend in that direction has come as a byproduct of other events.

And other byproducts, in the form of other social changes, will follow it.

For one thing, says Dr. Weld, it shifts

"the burden of benevolence from the shoulders of the man to those of the woman."

And since woman is less of an individualist and more socially minded than man, she is taking this burden seriously and preparing herself to carry it well. "She is entering into courses in sociology, politics, economics, international relations and psychology with fine interest which promises good things for the future."

This process will affect women themselves, the homes they create and consequently all of society. It should be a process of growth and improvement for all three.

COURTEOUS COPS

TRAFFIC police in one of the big cities, after getting drivers pretty well trained to observe the red lights, found that pedestrians were still snarling up the traffic and endangering their own lives. They not only kept on jay-walking between crossings, but at the regular crossings they persisted in crossing regardless of signals.

"Bawling out" a continuous throng of hurrying people is a big undertaking, and doesn't seem to do much good anyway. A clever official had a great quantity of cards printed and stationed policemen at the worst crossings to distribute them.

They were not police court tickets, but courteous messages courteously presented.

"You have just crossed the street against the red light," they said. Then they explained the dangers of the practice, and its unfairness to motorists, and urged the offenders to be more careful and considerate.

People seemed to like the idea and appreciate the courtesy, and the situation is reported as much improved. The color of the tickets is changed occasionally, so they

Budd L. McKillips of the staff of the standard railroad labor organizations' news organ, Labor, undoubtedly knows at least as much as to America's transportation problem as any individual in the country. Maybe he knows more than any other single individual.

According to Budd, "while all of the railroads are now a little anemic from undernourishment due to the business decline, it is generally conceded that they would be able to pull through nicely if they were not carrying around such a load of bond interest obligations." He adds that some of them are suffering from watered stock also.

In other words, they are trying to make money (or, at worst, break even) on the basis of a supposed investment immensely larger than ever was put into them.

RAILROADS DENY

I made this statement myself (though without Budd's background of specialized information) some time ago.

It was promptly challenged by the Association of American Railroads' press bureau. If the roads ever were watered, the bureau's representative assured me, the juice was squeezed out of them in the far distant past. Well, in fairness, I put out their side of the story—endeavoring to make it clear that it was THEIR version.

GOVERNMENT TO REVIVE BILL

WAshington—The triumphant foes of the President's Government Reorganization Bill have a surprise in store for them.

Barring a last minute change in secret plans, Administration leaders will shortly revive the legislation in the House and launch a new offensive to write it into law. Two factors are behind this decision:

1. The belief in the inner circle that there has been a powerful popular reaction against the turndown of the measure, and that a number of the Congressmen who voted with the opposition now regret they did so and are eager to climb back on the Roosevelt band-wagon.

2. That even if the bill is rejected a second time, it would be good political strategy for the Administration to make the issue clear-cut by forcing the boys to stand up and be counted again.

If the House stands pat and refuses to give ground on the legislation, the President has definitely determined to make government reorganization a battle-cry in this year's elections.

NOTE—Inside word among the six Wisconsin Progressives who bolted the leadership of Senator Bob LaFollette on the bill is that at least three of them, under the hammering they have received from constituents and the party press, have reversed themselves and will vote with the Administration if they get another chance.

Adolf Berle, Brain Trust Assistant Secretary of State, was declaiming to a group of friends on one of his favorite topics—the awe-inspiring superiority of Berle brain power.

"There are 26 traceable generations of Berles," he boasted, "and the last six have obtained their livelihood entirely by intellect."

"It must have been the women they married," observed Mrs. Randolph Paul, who had been listening patiently.

NEW YORK GOVERNOR

One man to keep an eye on, in placing any long-distance money on the next Governor of New York, is Democratic Congressman James M. Mead of Buffalo.

The President and Jim Farley have been giving him a careful once-over, with the idea that he may be the compromise candidate acceptable both to up-State Democrats and to Laborites in New York City, and finally not unacceptable to Tammany.

Jim Mead is an important figure in Congress, has been a staunch supporter of Roosevelt policies, but will require a considerable build-up before he can go over in the entire state.

This does not mean Solicitor General Bob Jackson is out of the running. It is still almost anybody's race.

will not look so familiar, and that helps. The police like it, too.

Some of the Daughters of the American Revolution say it wasn't in good taste for the President to remind them that their ancestors were immigrants and revolutionists.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

For, candidly, I didn't believe it. Budd McKillips, however, speaks with plenty of authority.

He refers to the Association of American Railroads' "press releases" as "tripe, which is fooling no one who doesn't want to be kided."

MILLIONS INVOLVED

Nevertheless, it is a Dickens (a stronger word SHOULD be used) of a situation.

The stock-watering and over-bonding dates back a generation or two.

Innocent, unsophisticated suckers loaded up on the transportation lines' securities at the time, their children inherited them and today the sack is held mainly by the original buyers' grandchildren.

And figures run into the billions.

STOP-GAP LEGISLATION

Talk of putting intrinsically insolvent rails through the bankruptcy "wringer" is all very well. It would make for better conditions 100 years hence—but at present?

Rail management wants to increase passenger and freight rates to meet their overload of obligations. That would advance prices of everything. The Interstate Commerce Commission's view is that this would curtail buying, and consequently reduce shipments, reacting disadvantageously upon the railroads themselves.

Rail management also want to

Effect of Tetra Ethyl Gas on the Hair

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
WE HAVE HAD several communications asking whether there is any harm in tetra ethyl lead gasoline, especially as to whether it causes lead poisoning.

When it was first introduced into commercial use, there was a great deal of fear that it might cause some trouble, but this has proved to be unfounded and careful investigations have revealed no cases of serious industrial poisoning from its use. However, it does appear that in some cases it may have an injurious influence on the skin.

A man aged 43, who had been working as an automobile mechanic for fifteen years, did a job which occupied him several days, in which he had to get under an automobile.

using atomized gasoline through a spray gun for removing grease. He naturally got a good deal on his person. Three days after this, all the hair on the left eyebrow, and a good deal of the hair on the right eyebrow, and most of the hair of the scalp came out. Within two months he had lost all the hair on his body. No other evidence of intoxication or lead poisoning or disease of any kind was found.

I have thought that a word of warning along this line might be in order now or soon, when so many will be making spring changes.

London at any time. Fiercely she wished that there was some way to build a fence and keep people like Wenda away.

But if Wenda were here, what of Gary? Had he sent her with his blessing because this was a better part? Or had his own play closed? Was he here, too? Her knees began to tremble. Oh, no, not that, she prayed.

She decided that she would not see Wenda's play, changed her mind, and purchased a ticket. Her innate honesty made her admit that night that Wenda played a difficult role with artistry. It was a harsh role, Barbara realized, and knew that Wenda's slim loveliness took away the subtle cruelty of her character.

Oh, some women could do anything and be given a diamond of stars for the wounding they had done! Some women stood for mystery, glamor, laughter that could not age. A few of them were worthy, and some, like Wenda, were rewarded for they knew the secret of the pretense.

She was glad that she had seen Wenda's play. She understood the actress' charm a little better.

Just the same, when her telephone rang a day or so later, and a child's voice asked for her, she did not connect it with Wenda's presence in London.

"This is Bobbie, Miss Kingsley," a timid, eager answer came back in reply to her hello.

"Bobbie! Oh, how wonderful! You're to be here long?"

As soon as South made a vulnerable second hand opening bid on this deal, North had visions of a slam if a fit could be found with either of his suits. The initial call was a heart and North responded with just two diamonds, being in no hurry to show his strength. East interrupted with three clubs.

When South now bid three-no trump, he was at one level higher than would have been necessary to save a mere two-no trump over his partner's two-diamonds in case East had passed. He was therefore showing more than a minimum hand, which sounded like music to North. The latter then called four-spades, quite a strong bid at this stage and an infernal force, since it would drive South to five if he preferred the diamonds.

Here, South decided, the fit was shown, so went to five-diamonds and North took it to six. West doubled and North, confident that his partner had the heart ace and could take the second club trick in view of his no-trump bid, redoubled. East took his club ace on the first trick, but then the show was over.

PICKAWAY COUNTY TROOPS PARTICIPATE IN ANNUAL BOY SCOUT CIRCUS

NO. 107 WINS IN SEMAPHORE SIGNAL EVENT

Fairgrounds Presentation Proves Great Success Saturday Eve

A large crowd of Circleville and Pickaway county residents attended the annual Boy Scouts circus, the Scout-o-Rama, Saturday evening in the Ohio state fairgrounds coliseum, and watched several city and county troops in competition.

Only one major award was won by a Circleville troop, No. 107 of the Methodist church taking third place in the semaphore signaling contest. Members of the team were Robert Brehmer Jr., Glen Barnhart, Lee Morgan and William Burgett, Jr.

Several other troops, including No. 158, sponsored by the American Legion, and No. 5, Kingston, sponsored by the Presbyterian church, participated in the various events. The Kingston troop spent Saturday night in the Deshler-Wallace hotel, Columbus, as a part of the trip.

Circus Big

The Scout-o-Rama proved to be one of the greatest spectacles in which local troops have participated. All the youths joined in the grand entry, several thousand boys marching in the arena enclosure with lights lowered and spotlights bringing out the many-colored flags and banners.

The circus, under direction of the central Ohio area council, opened with a band concert directed by Alphonse Cincione. The opening flag ceremony featured the Oxford choir of North Broadway M. E. church, Columbus. Eagle and sea scouts.

The Cub show, panorama of scout games, model airplane exhibition, camping and pioneering, signaling, fire-by-friction, fire-by-flint-and-steel, and knot-tying relays, equipment race, wall scaling in which Troop 158's team represented the county and finished fifth, the chariot race, also entered by Troop 158, the telephone symphony, and the closing ceremony were highlights of the evening.

The circus was arranged by scout officials in cooperation with Byron P. Redman, president of the council; Earl C. Sortman, Reg. F. Heber, Sid R. Phillips and A. W. Raymond, all members of the general committee.

OHIO FARM HAND FACES CHARGES IN TWO DEATHS

Roush confessed the crime just shortly before he was to have submitted to a "lie detector" test.

Roush told Prosecutor Michel he went to the Myers' home to pay a $1,400 note which the wealthy farm held.

Michel quoted Roush as saying:

"I walked into the house and told Myers I had the money to pay my note. He got out the note and wrote 'paid in full' across its face. Then I shot him. Mrs. Myers started screaming and I shot at her several times. I only hit her once, so I went into the kitchen, got a rifle and beat her over the head with it."

Sheriff Fred Miller contended the aged couple had been beaten and hacked with an axe, but Roush denied this in his confession.

The crime was discovered by Robert Bensley, 20, of Ashley; and Harry Wiley, 19, of Delaware. The two youths noticed the blaze in the Myers home as they passed it.

Strength Must Be Shown

The whole trend of recent diplomacy has been keyed by Britain's effort to line up a powerful combination which would force Hitler to muffle his threats of war as a means of spreading Nazi influence eastward — especially in Czechoslovakia. Now it is up to the Nazi leader to determine and possibly to show the world the strength of his partnership with Rome.

Well-informed sources report that Hitler would like to create a firm military alliance with Mussolini; a combination that would strengthen the Rome-Berlin axis as opposed to the London-Paris alliance. There has so far been no indication that the Fascist premier would accept such a fighting partnership.

On the contrary, there have been indications that Mussolini does not intend to surrender his position as a sort of balance wheel between Nazi military might and the Anglo-French bulwark against war.

Many problems, particularly regarding trade in central Europe, in Italian relations with Germany, are unsolved, in addition to the fact that the Fascist ruler cannot forget that Nazi soldiers now look down from the Brenner Pass on Italy.

The speaker termed Mr. Grand-Girard as a man who has been "universally optimistic" during his life.

"I wish to thank you all for what you have done today," Mr. Grand-Girard said. "I'm too full for utterance." Tears welled in his eyes after the presentation of the life membership. He was one of the charter members of the Chamber of Commerce.

A brief history of Mr. Grand-Girard's life was read by Mack Parrett, secretary of the organization. Mr. Brown was presented by W. E. Wallace, president of the Chamber of Commerce. The plaque and membership was presented to Mr. Grand-Girard by Mr. Wallace.

Stanley Grand-Girard, of Sharon, Pa., son of the honored guest, was introduced.

Chewing gum, for which Mr. Grand-Girard is so well known, was passed after the dinner. Mr. Grand-Girard is known by thousands for his gifts of chewing gum through the years.

A letter from Meeker Terwilliger, general chairman of the Northwest Territory celebration on May 9, thanking the organization or a bouquet of flowers, was read by Mr. Parrett. Mr. Terwilliger was awarded the organization's bouquet of flowers for April for his outstanding work in planning the celebration.

A suggestion was made at the meeting that the Chamber of Commerce sponsor the establishment of a Pickaway county museum. Mr. Wallace will appoint a committee to study the possibilities. The scores of antiques brought to the city for the Northwest Territory celebration have resulted in a suggestion that Circleville establish a museum to preserve some of these items. The museum could be located in Memorial Hall.

OHIO FARM HAND FACES CHARGES IN TWO DEATHS

Roush confessed the crime just shortly before he was to have submitted to a "lie detector" test.

Roush told Prosecutor Michel he went to the Myers' home to pay a $1,400 note which the wealthy farm held.

Michel quoted Roush as saying:

"I walked into the house and told Myers I had the money to act as a check rein on Nazi threats of war. He is negotiating for a similar treaty with France, which is now joined in a powerful defensive alliance with Britain.

Strength Must Be Shown

The whole trend of recent diplomacy has been keyed by Britain's effort to line up a powerful combination which would force Hitler to muffle his threats of war as a means of spreading Nazi influence eastward—especially in Czechoslovakia. Now it is up to the Nazi leader to determine—and possibly to show the world—the strength of his partnership with Rome.

Well-informed sources report that Hitler would like to create a firm military alliance with Mussolini; a combination that would strengthen the Rome-Berlin axis as opposed to the London-Paris alliance.

The speaker's first political venture was in the 8th Ohio general assembly 1921-22. He became judge of the Cuyahoga county Common Pleas court in 1924, serving until 1930, and from 1930 to 1933 he was a member of the eighth appellate district Court of Appeals. Judge Weygandt assumed the chief justice's bench in 1933.

Known as Official

In addition to his court duties, he has become a widely known athletic official, has headed many civic endeavors, aiding in Community fund drives and other similar projects.

He is married and father of three children.

The Workers Defense league joined Thomas in appeals to four government agencies. Thomas wrote letters to President Roosevelt and J. Edgar Hoover, head of the F. B. I., and sent a telegram to Sen. Robert M. LaFollette, head of a senate committee that has been investigating violations of civil rights. He told Mr. Roosevelt that he had been kidnapped "by agents of the Fascist national vice chairman of your party." He asked Hoover if it were possible to prosecute those responsible under the Lindbergh law.
